FOREIGN NEWS.

ENGLAND.

VANDERBILT IN LONDON

LONDON May 21—[Special]—Vanderbilt's fellow passengers who came up to London on the train with him have a wild theory that he engineered the whole panic and timed his departure from New York very skillfully so that his hand might not be seen in the transaction In support of this theory they say that he received a deluge of cablegrams on the arrival of the Baltic at Queenstown and that he smiled very significantly as he leisurely read the dispatches The messages and news that they contained had apparently been expected by Vanderbilt Vanderbilt being interviewed said "People in the United States have for some years been making money too fast They have not stopped to see what value they were getting but a large class of the community have as a rule and in many cases familiar to us all made large amounts by placing on the market securities which in ordinary times would be considered worthless

IN THE COMMONS.

LONDON May 21—In the commons to-day the bill amending the Irish laborers act of 1883 was rejected 113 to 75 Parnell complained of the opposition offered by Trevelyan chief secretary for Ireland He said the government must not find fault if it meets with retaliation He asked if the government meant to wait until the laborers burn the houses over the heads of dissenting landlords The laborers had been patient but it is intolerable that they should continue to live upon mud floors until a commission has investigated their grievances

PRAISE FOR SAM WARD

LONDON May 21—The Telegraph and Standard devote leading articles to Sam Ward. He is spoken of as generous and sympathetic, and as most genial and cosmopolitan His last arrival in London it is said was hailed with a chorus of delight Princely houses opened their doors wide and welcomed him with hospitable warmth

AGAINST MASONRY.

After mature deliberation in the council of cardinals Pope Leo XIII on the 20th of April issued a long encyclical letter to the venerable patriarchs primates archbishops and bishops of the Catholic world denouncing the fraternity of Free Masons and declaring the Masonic institution to be covert naturalism, opposed to Christianity and an enemy of the church From a careful translation of the document the following excerpts are taken

After alluding to the denunciations of the Masons by Popes Clement XII Benedict XIV Pius VII Leo XII Pius VIII Gregory XVI and Pius IX, and the discovery of all the secrets rites aims and ends of the Free Masons and identifying them with the profession and practice of naturalism through the confessions of recanting members of the brotherhood the sovereign pontiff says

Now if one watches the proceedings of the Masons in respect of religion especially where they are more free to do what they like it will appear that they carry faithfully into execution the tenets of the naturalists They work indeed obstinately to the end that neither the teaching nor the authority of the church may have any influence and therefore they preach and maintain the full separation of the church from the state So laws and government are wrested from the wholesome and divine virtue of the Catholic church and they want therefore by all means to put estates independent of the institutions and doctrines of the church

To drive off the church as a sure guide is not enough they add persecutions and insults Full license is given to attack with impunity both by words and print and teaching the very foundations of the Catholic religion the rights of the church are violated her divine privileges are not respected Her action is restricted as much as possible and that by virtue of laws apparently not too violent but substantially made on purpose to check her freedom Laws directly partial against the clergy are passed so as to reduce its number and its means The ecclesiastical revenue is in a thousand ways tied up and religious associations abolished and dispersed

* * * * *

It is true Free Masons generally admit the existence of God but they admit themselves that this persuasion for them is not firm sure They do not dissimulate that in the Masonic family the question of God is a principle of great discord It is even known how lately they had on this point serious disputes It is a fact that the sect leaves to the members full liberty of thinking about God whatever they like affirming or denying his existence Those who boldly deny his existence are admitted as well as those who like the Pantheists, admit God but ruin the idea of him retaining an absurd caricature of the divine nature destroying its reality Now as soon as this supreme foundation is pulled down and upset, many natural truths must needs go down too, as the free creation of this world the universal government of providence immortality of the soul future and eternal life

* * * * *

For domestic society almost all the doctrine of naturalism is that marriage is only a civil contract and may be lawfully broken by the will of the contracting parties the state has power over the matrimonial bond In the education of the children no religion must be applied and when grown up every one will select that which he likes

Now Free Masons accept these principles without any restriction and not only do they accept them but they endeavor to act so as to bring them into moral and practical life In many countries which are professedly Catholic marriages not celebrated in the civil form are considered null elsewhere laws allow divorce In other places everything is done in order to have it permitted So the nature of marriage will soon be changed and reduced to a temporary union which can be done and undone at pleasure

The sect of Masons aims unanimously and steadily also at the possession of the education of children They and retain that a tender age is easily bent and that there is no more useful way of preparing for the state such citizens as they wish Hence in the instruction and education of children they do not leave to the ministers of the church any part either in directing or watching them In many places they have gone so far that child's education is all in the hands of laymen and from moral teaching every idea is banished of those holy and great duties which bind together man and God

The principles of social science follow Here naturalists teach that men have all the same rights and are perfectly equal in condition that every man is naturally independent that no one has a right to command others that it is tyranny to keep men subject to any other authority than that which emanates from them themselves Hence the people are sovereign those who rule have no authority but by the commission and concession of the people so that they can be deposed willing or unwilling according to the wishes of the people The origin of all rights and civil duties is in the people or in the state which is ruled according to the new principles of liberty The state must be godless no reason why one religion ought to be preferred to another, all to be held in the same esteem

Now it is well known that Free Masons approve these maxims and that they wish to see governments shaped on this pattern and model needs no [illegible] It is a long time indeed that they have worked with all their strength and power openly for this making thus an easy way for those not a few more audacious and bold in evil who meditate the communion and equality of all goods after having swept away from the world every distinction of social grades and conditions

From these few hints it is easy to understand what is the Masonic sect and what it wants Its tenets are so evidently contrary to reason that nothing can be more perverted The desire to destroy religion and church established by God with the promise of immortal life to try to revive after eighteen centuries the manners and institutions of paganism is great foolishness and bold impiety Not less horrible or unbearable is it to repudiate the gifts granted through his goodness by Jesus Christ to individuals to families and to states benefits very important even according to the opinion of his adversaries In this foolish and fierce attempt one recognizes that untamed hatred and rage of revenge kindled against Jesus Christ in the heart of Satan

* * * * *

We by our authority ratify and confirm all things which the Roman pontiffs our predecessors have ordered to check the purposes and stop the efforts of the Masonic sect and all those which they established to keep off or withdraw the faithful from such societies And here trusting greatly to the good will of the faithful we pray and entreat each of them, as they love their own salvation to make it a duty of conscience not to depart from what has been on this point prescribed by the apostolic see

We entreat and pray you venerable brethren who co-operate with us to extirpate this poison which spreads widely among the nations It is your duty to defend the glory of God and the salvation of souls Keeping before your eyes these two ends you shall lack neither the courage nor the fortitude To judge which may be the more efficacious means to overcome difficulties and obstacles belongs to your prudence Yet as we find it agreeable to our ministry to point out some of the most useful means the first thing to do is to strip from the Masonic sect its mask and to show it as it is teaching orally and by pastoral letters the people about the frauds used by these societies to flatter and entice the perversity of its doctrines and the dishonesty of its works As our predecessors have many times declared those who love the Catholic faith and their own salvation must be sure that they cannot give their names for any reason to the Masonic sect without sin.

A poet asks in a few simple verses, "Who will plant flowers on my grave?" We can't give names but we can assure him that if we had published the lines every subscriber to this valuable journal would feel it incumbent upon him to act as a committee of one on planting.—Merchant Traveller

EASTERN DISPATCHES.

The Financial Situation Far from Being Settled.

A HEAVY BANK FAILURE AT PITTSBURG

Endicott Resigns the Presidency of the Transcontinental Important Agreement between the Northern and the Union Pacific.

NEW YORK May 21—Russell Sage last night informed a friend that he had decided to open his doors to all comers in the morning and receive the balance of his puts as fast as they may be tendered This statement was confirmed upon inquiry by an associated press reporter

NEW YORK May 21—J L Brownell & Co have failed

NEW YORK May 21—Brownell & Co consist of J L Brownell H M Walker and L W Murry The firm was formerly Brownell & Walker The shrinkage in values caused the failure to-day Liabilities are light

Everything is quiet at Sage's office He is receiving notifications of stock to be put to him to-morrow

WILL PAY IN TIME

NEW YORK May 21—Simpson of Donnell Lawson & Simpson stated to an associated press reporter today that they will pay one half of their indebtedness in twelve months and the remainder in two years if the terms are accepted by nine-tenths of the creditors both in amounts and numbers

THE STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK May 21—Governments lower for registered 4s and 4½s and higher for 3s The stock market opened irregular and in the main lower In the afternoon the failure of the Pennsylvania bank at Pittsburg caused a settling movement and a more of troubles in Philadelphia did the rest Near 2 P M there was a sudden and sharp change for the better and many leading stocks commanded a premium for use Near the close Union Pacific was hammered down to 41 by leading bear operators Advices were received from Omaha that Ames and Adams of the Union Pacific had found the affairs of the Union Pacific in a worse condition than was expected and they were utterly helpless to improve the situation Official advices however were exactly to the contrary The drop in Union Pacific caused a decline of ¼ to 1¾ per cent in the general list Stocks closed irregular Compared with last night closing prices are ½ to 1¾ per cent higher for Missouri Pacific Kansas and Texas, Northern Pacific Oregon Transcontinental Pacific Mail, Omaha Texas Pacific and Western Union Union Pacific is 3 per cent lower

FROM THE POST

NEW YORK May 21—[Special]—The Post says there was more excitement in Wall street this morning than on any day since the panic. The market opened weak and feverish, and prices of all securities were rapidly forced down A number of commission houses to-day refused to sell or buy stocks on margins One of the immediate causes of the depression in the stock market yesterday and to-day was the position of Russell Sage in regard to the large amount of his outstanding puts and the possible result of his losses We have trustworthy information that his outstanding puts amount now to about 40,000 shares which at the price of to-day show a loss of $600,000 which it is thought Sage can stand without serious inconvenience

It is now understood that the April earnings of the Union Pacific will show a decrease of from $400,000 to $500,000 compared with last year

At the offices of all the suspended firms it was said that the situation to-day was practically unchanged It is not probable that any of them will resume business until there is improvement in the market.

BANK FAILURE AT PITTSBURG

PITTSBURG May 21—The Pennsylvania bank of this city closed its doors at 12 30 P M and posted the following on the door "Owing to a continued run for several days we have decided it wise for our depositors and all concerned to suspend payment for the present" There is great excitement and a large crowd surround the bank Officers have been placed at the doors

Wm R Riddle president of the Pennsylvania bank which was doing the largest business of any bank in Pittsburg got up from a sick bed this morning having been prostrated from hemorrhage and is now at the bank The following statement is made for the associated press "I have nothing to say in defense but am here to face the music and do my duty Owing to unfounded reports made current by interested and malicious persons there has been a run on us for several days and our deposits have been decreased from $700,000 to $500,000 in five days We therefore deem it wise to take the action now done. Further I have nothing to say except that I am individually the largest loser having the largest deposit and the largest amount of stock in the bank

A USELESS MAKESHIFT

The Pennsylvania bank assisted in meeting its obligations to the clearing house by a loan of $30,000 made by the Farmers Deposit national bank through which it cleared It was hoped matters would be put in shape to day and that the bank would be able to meet its paper when presented The result was disappointment and the checks of the Pennsylvania bank were returned by the Farmers bank Of the aggregate amount of checks thus returned by the Farmers bank the officials refused to make any statement, but as the aggregate of exchange at the clearing house was little below his yesterday the total could not have been near as large as usual In ordinary times the Pennsylvania bank had out a very large amount in checks but for some days past had fallen off greatly

DAMAGING RUMORS CIRCULATED

It is said that rumors were set afloat by interested parties that the Pennsylvania bank and two other banks have been allowing certain brokers to overdraw their accounts The result was a run One of the stockholders of the Pennsylvania bank says the suspended bank is entirely solvent and will pay every dollar of its debts or deposits. The capital stock is $200,000 A full statement is promised this evening

A meeting of the associated banks was held this afternoon to take measures to sustain all in the like similar to the action taken at New York William E Schmer president of the First National says he had seen the balance sheet of the Pennsylvania bank and thought they would be able to pay all debts and that it was solvent The other banks he regards as strong enough to stand the crisis

A STATEMENT

President Riddle to night made the following official statement to the associated press "The board of directors met this afternoon and by general affirmation in the affairs of the bank. It examined and justifies them and myself in the statement that the bank can as matters now stand pay every dollar of deposits and stock" Riddle refused to give any statement of the liabilities or assets From outside sources it was learned that the liabilities will not exceed $1,300,000 and the assets will cover this. The only question is time to realize The bank was crowded with savings accounts but this is denied The direct cause of the trouble is attributed to rumors growing out of clearances of the petroleum exchange being taken away from the Pennsylvania bank which up to a few days ago was the clearing house of the exchange The change was made several days ago and the business was transferred to the Farmers Deposit national bank This gave rise to rumors that the bank was in trouble or likely to be and a run has been going on consequently for several days The feeling to-night is uneasy and it is feared runs will be made on several banks to-morrow

THE OIL MARKET

PITTSBURG May 21—Oil opened weak. Erie declined to 69⅞ and then rallied to 72 but broke again to 70 at 1 o'clock on a report of the announcement of the suspension of the Pennsylvania bank The feeling became very much unsettled and panicky the trade was excited and a disposition to get rid of oil prevails

INDUSTRIAL CONGRESS

A Decided Protection Sentiment Manifested—The Resolutions

CHICAGO, May 21—Representatives in attendance upon the national industrial congress, began the session here this forenoon The attendance is light only forty two delegates being present T D Curtis of Syracuse N Y was elected temporary chairman In taking the chair he delivered an address in strong advocacy of protection as opposed to free trade and declared that the salvation of American industry rested in their making a common fight against the advocates of free trade irrespective of political party lines The majority of the delegates present represent the beet sorghum jute flax and salt industries and will urge upon the national republican and democratic conventions the necessity of protective laws to prevent their destruction

L Bush of Louisiana was elected permanent chairman and a committee on resolutions was appointed

Mr Bush made a protective speech He said the sugar interests of Louisiana wanted incidental protection

At the conclusion of his remarks Judge Atwater of Minnesota said he had come to the convention under a misapprehension It was called for the purpose of discussing the industrial interests of the country but from the tenor of the president's speech he found the convention had cut and dried its proceedings in the interest of protection The flour and grain interests of Minnesota were opposed to more protection and he therefore asked to be permitted to withdraw from the convention

President Bush replied that Judge Atwater's assumption was erroneous A majority of those present favored protection but this would not prevent a debate

THE RESOLUTIONS

At the evening session the committee on resolutions reported a long preamble and resolutions which were adopted They declare that the nation should foster and develop its natural resources by a protective tariff that our greatest prosperity was shown during the operation of protection and financial depressions in times of free trade that protection and not free trade was the proper national policy except with nations whose labor is not on a basis equal to ours They urge upon the attention of congress that the tariff should be levied on foreign competition with all our products and manufactures the result of American labor that no commodity the result of American labor can properly be put upon the free list, they ask for the repeal of the internal revenue tax and that the importation of pauper or contract labor be prohibited by law that waterways and railways particularly the chain of lakes and the Mississippi river and connections between them be developed protected and improved that the producer of raw material be protected as well as the manufacturer and specifically ask congress to protect by tariff the following Wool hemp flax jute cane sugar beet sugar rice cotton ties, old hoops, old rails scrap iron and tin plates They call for abrogation of the treaties with the Sandwich islands and Mexico as competitors with semi slave labor for the sugar trade and conclude with a request for the revision of the patent laws Adjourned

THE METHODISTS

Proceedings of the General Conference in Session at Philadelphia

PHILADELPHIA, May 20—At the Methodist conference to day the conference adopted a motion that five legal and two ministerial members of the conference be appointed a committee to consider the matter of tenure of church property The report relating to temperance was adopted by a large majority

The committee on the Freedman's Aid society of the Methodist Episcopal conference adopted a report upon the entire question of education work in the south among whites and blacks The report recommends that an appeal be made to the church to raise $500,000 during the coming year for work in the south The committee report That mixed schools and congregations may in many places be the most desirable In other places one class or the other or both prefer separate congregations and separate schools if such is their right and we heartily concur" The report further states "That it is the judgment of this committee that the entire educational work of the Methodist Episcopal church in the south should be under the direction of one society and in view of the great success of the Freedmen's Aid society the past four years in carrying forward educational work in the south we believe this society ought to have full charge of the work

Utah

The Contest Between the Denver and Rio Grande Companies

SALT LAKE May 21—Yesterday the defendants filed a very long answer in the case of the Denver and Rio Grande Western vs. the Denver and Rio Grande It assails the legality of the lease under which the former company holds and operates Utah lines claiming that it had no power to make or to ratify the contract set up by plaintiffs, as the grounds of Colonel Dodge's claim to power to manage the leased road Defendant alleges that the contract was drawn against their interests by Palmer Dodge Bass and others who were acting for some time as officers and counsel of the Denver and Rio Grande the Denver and Rio Grande Western and the Denver and Rio Grande Construction Company and to provide for their profit in the said company when they should be ousted from the first that the terms of the contract were known only to about one dozen of the stock holders and that when the company became fully informed of the transaction President Palmer found it best to resign They allege that the terms of the lease were violated by the Denver and Rio Grande Western in that they did not turn over the road in the condition agreed upon in good running order fully equipped for business that the road was in complete bad order and possessed nothing but could not command equipment that to complete and equip the road the defendant had been obliged to expend upwards of $500,000 of its own funds that Dodge has run the Utah lines at a loss of $300,000 already that to further injure the defendant he increased the expenses in April nearly $7000 in excess of any previous month that he is incompetent and unsafe that if his claim is sustained he can if disposed run the leased lines at such expense and presume such tariffs as will make the Utah road a loss to the company

SAN FRANCISCO MARKETS.

Review of the Principal Lines for the Past Week—Quotations.

SAN FRANCISCO May 21—[Special]—The Liverpool market during the week has been reported inactive and California cargoes on Monday dropped 6d all around Sales of No 1 shipping have been diminished and values had slightly declined. Holders on Tuesday were asking $1 47½ but exporters were not inclined to pay over $1 45

The Chicago spot market on Thursday was quoted at 88c per bushel Saturday it dropped to 86¾c, and Monday to 87c Wednesday being a legal holiday unsettled business the last part of the week The news with New York telegrams announcing the panic in the stock market caused the local market to close quieter on Thursday than it otherwise would have done

Crops in all sections of the state are reported to be progressing favorably for a large harvest Two vessels have cleared during the week for Great Britain and Ireland with 315,630 centals of wheat valued at $143,853 There has been only one wheat vessel chartered at this port the British iron bark Ravenswood to Cork U K [illegible]

Tonnage under engagement to load wheat is 7990 against 7650 at the same time in 1883 being an increase of 340 tons Disengaged tons in port are 11,950 against 36,990 at the same period last year

Flour—There is a fair demand for local consumption Exports for feed were 11,031 bbls valued at $5 606

Barley—Receipts for the week ending May 17 were 3,113 centals against 28,835 the previous week In the early part of the week under review the market for No 1 feed was strong but heavy receipts have caused the market to decline Stocks in the interior are heavy and the prospects are of an unusually large crop the coming harvest so that it is a serious question how the surplus can be disposed of to advantage During the week one grain vessel loaded with No 1 feed sailed for Great Britain but as this is only an experiment it is doubtful if the enterprise will be a paying one The trade on change is not active, and sales partake largely of a jobbing character Brewing is in fair demand at a wide range of values Speculative sales on call during the week have been light The largest sales 2000 tons were recorded on Saturday

Oats—The market is well supplied with inferior descriptions but the demand is not active nor are prices firm Receipts during the week have been free Extra choice grades are not over abundant, and prices favor the selling interest.

Hops—Stocks of good to choice in first hands are estimated at less than 6000 bales The market is firm for desirable qualities, in sympathy with the eastern and English markets Prospects are for a fine crop on this coast there being no blight or worms of any account The yield is reported to be larger than that of any preceding season

Potatoes—Old varieties are pretty well cleaned up, and are not in favor owing to the large supply of new

Onions—Old are scarce and prices nominal New on wharf $1 10@1 25 per cental

Domestic Fruits—Oranges are in fair supply The first hundred boxes of cherries came to hand Tuesday morning and prices declined The first consignment of the season were received on Monday and sold at 40@25 per lb Strawberries make a good display Prices have ranged from $7 to $10 per chest California lemons are a trifle easier Sicily lemons are higher

Vegetables—Considerable varieties are coming forward freely Green peas are in large supply at $1 50@1 50 per sack Summer squash green peppers and string beans are lower Rhubarb is in good demand

Butter—The market is well cleaned up of fresh owing to heavy packing going on in the interior Prices are firm and dealers expect an advance in the near future

Cheese—The supply is liberal and stocks are accumulating Prices are easy

Eggs—With in the past few days receipts of eastern have been large and prices are easy except for California fresh ranch

Poultry—Arrivals during the week have been fully equal to the demand with but little variation in prices

Game—Arrivals are light and irregular, and quotations nominal

Provisions—Beef products are slightly lower than a week ago Mutton is in large supply and the market is weak Hogs are arriving in moderate quantities and of improved quality

IS LIFE WORTH LIVING?

Dr Talmage Says that It Depends Entirely on the Kind of Life One Lives.

New York Herald May 12.

Dr. Talmage preached in the Brooklyn tabernacle in the morning on the question Is Life Worth Living I we leave to the evolutionists to guess where we come from and to the theologians to prophesy where where we are going we still have left for consideration the fact that we are here I am not surprised that everybody asks the question Is life worth living Solomon says it is not but Jeremiah says it is A diversity of opinion exist in us all A young man with great prospects will say Yes a man forty years of age whose every step has been a stumble will say 'No If you ask me the question I answer It all depends on the kind of life you live

In the first place I remark that a life of mere money getting is always a failure because you will never get as much as you want The poorest people in his country are the millionaires and next to them those who have half a million There is not a miserly grinder in New York or Brooklyn so anxious to make money as those men who have piled up fortunes for years The disease of accumulation has eaten into them That is not a life worth living there are too many earthquakes in it too many shipwrecks too many perditions They build their castles and open their picture galleries and make every inducement for happiness to come but she will not come.

So also a life that chiefly strives for worldly approval is a failure The two most unfortunate men in the United States for the next six months will be the two presidential nominees Two great reservoirs of malediction have been gradually filling up and about midsummer they will be brimming full and a sluice will be attached to them and they will begin to play on the two nominees and they will have to stand and take it—the falsehood, the caricature, the venom the filth and they will be rolled over and over it and choked with it. To win that privilege a hundred candidates are striving

The same thing is seen in a smaller scale in the strife for social position Good morals and intelligence are not necessary but wealth or the show of wealth is absolutely indispensable It don't make any difference how you get your wealth if you only get it Perhaps you got it by failing four or five times—the most rapid way of accumulation in this country If a man fails once he is not so very well off but if he fails twice he is comfortable and by the time he fails three times he is affluent. But when you really like your money how quickly you go up! High social life is constantly in a change—insecurity, discontent, wretchedness enthroned and a life not worth living A life of sin and life of pride a life of worldliness a life of indulgence a life consecrated to the world the flesh and the devil is a failure, an infinite failure

Now I will show you a life that is worth living A young man says, I am here a twenty years of age I have sixty years to live How many kind words can I say and how many kind deeds can I do? I will try I will develop this body by all good habits and keep this soul swept and garnished Then I must remember that these eighty years are only a brief preface to my chief existence." That young man enters life but led and perplexed falls and rises again The main course of his life is in the right direction You can chisel on his tombstone the words His life was worth living. A life for God a useful life a life for others I always worth living Whether your life be conspicuous or inconspicuous it is worth living, if you live aright. Remember that this life is only introductory to an eternal life The last letter of the word time is the first letter of the word eternity

The Origin of the Word "Charlatan."

Medical and Surgical Reporter.

The Æsculapian says: It is generally admitted that the word "charlatan" is derived from the Italian word ciarlare to chatter, to prate It appears as far up to the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries the word was pronounced "chiaratan" A German journal gives its etymology differently A Paris physician Latin went through the town in a chariot containing his drugs and in which he exercised his patients This caused the expression, "Il est le Char du Latin" which was subsequently adopted into "charlatan"

THE PRESIDENCY.

Considerable Attention Devoted to Mr. Arthur's Claims.

PRESS COMMENT ON THE NEW YORK MEETING.

The "Times" Ridicules the Affair and Its Instigators—The Arthur Boom Declared Fictitious—News and Gossip.

NEW YORK May 21—[Special]—The democratic papers, as might be expected, ridicule the Arthur meeting of last night, and impatiently inquire what sort of business men Beecher Bristow and Parke Godwin are It is noticed that most of the best business men who signed the call were absent, and their places filled with the boys who came in crowds of fifties and hundreds.

The Tribune does not decry the meeting, but says, editorially The people of the country do not want a Wall street president in the White house

The Times is very bitter, and says "In different places in this jury whose decision Mr Beecher and Bristow, with O'Brien and Bigler, would have the republican convention challenge there will be hundreds of thousands of real business men in every state of the Union They are the men whose misfortunes do not command Mr Beecher's sympathy who have not been gambling with other men's money and whose charity is paid for out of their own pockets They want for president a pure upright unselfish man who will respect their independence and not seek to debauch the public service or suffrage and they do not want, they will not accept, Mr Arthur The majority of those in the hall were experts in the trade in which Chester A. Arthur served his apprenticeship, and won such deserved distinction in this city Their indorsement is worth something to the president It stamps him as the kind of president most acceptable to Johnny O'Brien Mike Cregan Jake Hess, Barney Biglin 'Bob McCord' Jake Patterson and Sol Smith But it is not in New York, Ohio Connecticut or New Jersey that the indorsement of O'Brien Biglin Cregan and company will help Arthur In all those states such associations and such approval will irreparably damage him or any candidate In what part of the Union will last night's meeting of political workers help the president?"

ARTHUR GAINING STRENGTH.

PHILADELPHIA May 21—[Special]—McClure of the Press sends the following from Washington "There is a general impression here that President Arthur is gaining strength Whether this opinion conveyed to his friends it might be regarded as inspired more by their hopes than facts but the president himself is in possession of direct information which leads him to the same belief There is no doubt that within six weeks there has been a marked stimulation of enthusiasm among the supporters of Blaine The president in conversation with the Times correspondent expressed himself in terms as positive and favorable, that the inference may be drawn that there is much going on which has not yet been brought to the surface In going over his vote he has every reason to expect the New England vote, except that of Blaine after Edmunds and Hawley are out of the field He will have more of the vote of this own state than is conceded by the Blaine men He will also stand well in Michigan Minnesota Wisconsin and Nebraska and will have the bulk of the southern delegates During a conversation your correspondent said But Mr President the friends of Blaine have among their arguments the belief of the favorite Lee estimation that you cannot unite the party in New York

So I have heard replied the president "I will say this that I can poll a larger vote in the state of New York than any of the candidates who make this charge I think I understand the situation in New York better than those who make such assertions, but I am not becoming in me to present any of the particulars Only I have every reason to believe that such are the facts and that such is the situation In addition to our own votes we need democratic votes to carry New York."

THE ARTHUR BOOM FICTITIOUS

PHILADELPHIA May 21—[Special]—The Press Washington special declares "There has been a persistent effort during the last two days to create an impression that a reaction in favor of Arthur has begun here and throughout the country. The word has been passed to make the talk of this alleged revival simultaneously with the business men's meeting which took place in New York last night A couple of days in Washington has been sufficient to convince me that so far as the capital is concerned and so far as advices received here by leading men of the party may be trusted this revival is entirely fictitious Your correspondent has the highest authority for the statement that Lincoln's aspirations have caused anything but a pleasant feeling on the part of the president toward him and Gresham has also with less reason fallen under the executive displeasure Regarding Arthur's alleged strength in the south it may be said, without going into details that instead of being solid for Arthur it is more than likely that he will not have the solid vote of more than one southern state

THE VIEWS OF GRANT AND CONKLING.

NEW YORK May 21—[Special]—The Post says "Some very valuable views upon the question of presidential candidates have been extracted from General Grant and Conkling The former says that while Senator Edmunds is a wise and judicious man he would be in continual trouble if he were president because he would want to veto all the bills sent him by congress Mr Conkling earnestly hopes that another nobody will be nominated, since we have had enough of them and the time has come to nominate somebody He is frank to say that Blaine is a somebody He is a man of great talent and great ability has rendered the party distinguished services and is justly entitled to credit Blaine journals are quoting this endorsement with great delight, and from one point of view they have good reason for doing so

NEW HAMPSHIRE DEMOCRATIC CONVENTION

CONCORD May 21—The state democratic convention assembled to day Chairman H W Parker denounced protection and said a tariff for revenue only would be the issue of the campaign

The resolutions declare against all laws tending to centralization of wealth and political influence, demand the reduction of the war tariff commend the democratic majority in the house for recent efforts for tariff reform insist on no cessation of the efforts for internal revenue system, re-established on an honest basis call for thorough reform of the administration of affairs arraign the republican party as false to the interests of the people assert condemnation of the great crime of 1876 "a wrong we propose to right, and make impossible hereafter

Frank Jones Henry O Kent Frank A. McKean and Alvah Sulloway were chosen delegates at large There were no instructions but the unanimous sentiment of the convention favored the "old ticket," and they will support it at the national convention Adjourned

A NARROW MARGIN.

Boston Advertiser

It is shortsighted to be oblivious to the fact that the canvass of 1880 when so many circumstances helped the republicans was exceedingly arduous, and the election which followed secured by some small republican pluralities The republicans had a popular man who had been a soldier as their candidate. The democratic candidate proved to have poor staying power These incidental advantages, and the evident desire of the country, made the republican prospects inspiring When the votes were counted however the republicans had reason to see that their escape from defeat in certain states was narrow The following table exhibits that fact

States	Total vote	Garfield's plurality
Colorado	53,534	2,803
Connecticut	132,770	2,656
Indiana	470,578	6,635
New Hampshire	86,303	4,058
New York	1,104,605	21,033
Oregon	40,8[illegible]	671

These states cast 67 electoral votes in 1880 Garfield had 214 electoral votes and Hancock 155 a difference of but 59 in the republican's favor The single change of New York's 35 votes would have turned the scale That change would have been effected by the transferring of less than 1 per cent of the republican vote to the democrats Connecticut would likewise have been lost had 1 per cent. of her republicans joined the democrats Indiana, like New York, could not have borne the defection of less than 1 per cent The other states mentioned were close It must be remembered, too, that we are now dealing only with pluralities. Thus in Indiana the democrats and greenbackers together had a majority of 6000 over Garfield. Another standpoint, moreover reveals the evenly balanced condition of the popular vote The vote in all the states was 9,204,428 Garfield's plurality was only 7018 That is a change of 3510 votes in over nine millions would have given Hancock a plurality

A quiet examination of such figures makes the foolish methods of conducting a canvass seem a foolish reliance The republicans barely carried the election four years ago, and yet there is talk of the absolute certainty that the republicans are to succeed once more It is best to appreciate the circumstance that only by the presentation of an acceptable candidate by unity, and by hard work, can the republicans earn further control of the government, though the chances now decidedly favor the party If any republicans are disposed to be too exuberant let them think of the 1 per cent. In New York and Indiana in 1880, and prepare for even greater activity than was shown when Garfield was elected. A dubious republican candidate or an indifferent support of a good one would quickly restore the democrats to power unless extraordinary fatuity overtook the democrats It is prudent for a party and particularly its over-enthusiastic members, to study its assets occasionally and especially to consider the times when it has narrowly escaped disaster Then it is prepared to do its best with its best.

Starving them Peaceably

Philadelphia Times.

There is a story current of a quartermaster at a frontier reservation post who, after many fruitless applications for additional food for Indians at the agency, at last put in a requisition for a Gatling gun The commanding officer forwarded the application with this indorsement "In my opinion the Indians at this agency are starving to death, and I recommend that a Gatling gun be sent to compel them to starve peaceably" The gun was sent, so the story goes, and the Indians are now starving quietly.

Tombs of Great Musicians.

Dandelion Tonic! Truly Named The King of Tonics. Dr. Henley's DANDELION TONIC

The Daily Oregonian.

THURSDAY MORNING MAY 22 1884.

THE GHOST OF 1876

Tilden is the only man seriously talked of by the democrats of the country as their candidate for the presidency He is past 70 years of age and so feeble that the vital spark can be kept in him only by the most watchful care Any little disturbance of the even course of his life would extinguish it Rocked in the cradle of reposing age he breathes not lives He is incapable of physical exertion and he confesses that mental exertion with him is impossible he can speak scarcely above a whisper and in the course of nature his time of dissolution cannot be distant To all who visit him bringing the suggestion that he must be the candidate of his party, he says that he could not undergo the strain of the contest and if elected could not discharge the duties of the presidency In making these statements he ought to be believed They are in the nature of dying declarations and one who realizes that he is done with the world cannot afford—though a politician—to say the thing that is not

Nevertheless—such is the vanity of man—Mr Tilden evidently would be gratified with the offer of the nomination even though he should feel it necessary to decline it absolutely and finally, as he probably would

But his party, because it has no vigorous or independent life since it has no distinctive principles, looks to this feeble old man as its only hope It looks to him as a representative of a past that was full of anticipations though it never grew into reality, he is the feeble embodiment of a lamented reminiscence, and lags superfluous as the ghostly leader of a party whose history is all behind it.

A distinguished citizen of Oregon, who in the days of the active life of the democratic party was an active democrat, remarked recently that since the party now was going to the grave to get a candidate it might as well go one spade length deeper and bring up General Jackson

It is because the democratic party cannot unite on any vital question of the present time that it turns to Mr Tilden who represents time long past. It is claimed that his name would in itself be a great political issue, which would supersede all other issues of the contest

But time does not go backward Events move on with ceaseless flow, and men must move on, too, or lose all connection and identity with events One age is not a transcript of another The contest of 1876 cannot be renewed in 1884 There are too many conditions now that differ from those of that time

The "old ticket," then would not be the ticket of 1876, but only the ghost of it. If it be claimed that there is a great wrong to be redressed, why was not redress attempted in 1880? Why was it not thought of while the now aggrieved claimant still had a portion of his life before him? The "great wrong, in the shape now presented, is an invention of later growth

Is this call for a moribund candidate a sign that the party making it is moribund too? Is there a sort of fitness of things ruling over human destinies that brings about this conjunction?

CALLED TO ACCOUNT

It is well known that the Cincinnati riots grew out of the failure of courts and juries to protect society by the punishment of criminals Evil doers from great to little went free till the administration of justice became a mockery and the people driven to frenzy resorted to riot and bloodshed to rectify or avenge their grievances Most of this legal mockery came through the criminal practice of Cincinnati's leading lawyer Col T C Campbell, He has recently been indicted by a grand jury and if half is true that is said about him his punishment should be certain and severe He is said to have made $300 000 in Cincinnati within ten years in the so called practice of the law He became a potent influence in the nominating conventions of both political parties and is credited with often taking the precaution to have men whom he could handle nominated on both tickets for the offices in which he had an interest, thus insuring a continuance of his hold upon the police and court machinery whatever might be the issue of the election Criminals employed him and their cases never came to trial, or if they were tried there was a disagreement Business men employed him in jury cases and verdicts were found in their favor It was the belief that some of the younger attorneys, dazzled by his success were adopting his methods and that justice would soon be driven from the courts This feeling was the moving spirit of the riot

Colonel Campbell does not stand alone He is represented in every great city and even the small country bars have his counterpart Lawyers are no longer if indeed they ever were the expounders of law or the defenders of justice These functions may be incidents of their profession or practice but never a motive power They cannot be To succeed lawyers must win, to make money and a name, they must be successful Means are secondary matters Learning and eloquence cannot cope with a mediocrity which must and will fix a jury The former becomes disgusted, and at last with cynical contempt adopts that which assures success The legal profession boasts of many noble men, but it is still notorious that the most successful practitioners are not such because they deserve it upon honest merit

The Cincinnati grand jury, in reporting on the causes of the riots, used the following language, which produced a sensation among the judges to whom the report was made "Among the causes leading to the riots may be mentioned defects in the criminal code which exempt many citizens from jury duty and almost preclude the possibility of securing intelligent jurors in criminal cases, granting of new trials on the most trivial technicalities, the opportunities afforded for corrupting jurors, and the light penalties imposed for the commission of the greatest crimes, supplemented frequently by the abuse of the pardoning power" Judge Avery remarked after the reading of the report that "the reference to the evils of the administration of justice are not properly a matter to include in a grand jury report" The grand jury could not very well touch upon the causes of a riot springing out of those very evils without discussing that subject, and their indictments fifty four in number, show that they have not wasted their time

An "anti coal-oil" democrat of Ohio has been giving his view to the press, and they are exceedingly lugubrious The text of his remarks is that the republicans will carry Ohio next fall, and the country is going to the devil" And then, coming down to bedrock he bursts forth as follows, "Did you ever see such a political idiot as Converse of Ohio? He ought to have known that his darned old wool bill could not pass We had the republicans where we wanted them on that question Our argument was that the republicans were responsible for the reduction of the wool tariff Converse has played right into the hands of the republicans. Now we are on the defensive The Scott law is going to play the boomerang with us also It would be foolish to expect the Germans to tie to us after their experience with us Generally the taxpayers are satisfied with the Scott law. Free whisky can never win a victory for the democratic party again, the people won't stand it. If the new democratic supreme court upsets the law as seems probable, we'll be more in the hole than ever"

In the New York assembly woman suffrage was defeated by the close vote of 62 nays to 57 yeas Analysis of the vote shows twenty-seven democrats and thirty republicans voted for the bill, so it appears that the question was not one of party and that the adverse decision was based upon other grounds than party considerations. This may be taken as a favorable omen by the advocates of woman suffrage, and will very much simplify their future operations

THE INDEPENDENTS.

The address issued by the conference committee recently appointed by the independent republican organization of New York is the explicit announcement that the members of the committee desire to see the republican party succeed at the coming election In order to succeed the party must carry New York and the canvass of 1882 when Judge Folger was overwhelmed is used as fair illustration of what might happen again in New York with a poor candidate and intolerable management In fact, as the address suggests a change of a single vote in each school district in that state would wipe out a republican majority as large as that of 1880 The narrow margin in New York, under the best conditions is a warning against doubtful experiments The nomination of Horace Greeley, or rather the liberal movement which led up to it weakened party allegiance beyond recovery, and the disposition to bolt improper nominations has been growing more rapidly since 1882 than ever before It can hardly be doubted that New York will be lost to the republicans if the independents are repelled by an obnoxious nomination

While the address does not mention by name candidates whom the independent republicans will not support it says it would be imprudent to nominate a man whom a considerable portion of the party distrust or one whose associations with factional quarrels has made for him many enemies This would be the greater folly because of the large number of excellent men available for the nomination The address is admirable in its tone and convincing in its argument It is in striking contrast in this respect with the furious assault upon President Arthur by Wayne McVeagh There is no excuse to be offered for the speech which General Arthur made at the Dorsey dinner or for his going to Albany to influence votes in Mr Conkling's struggle to regain what he had wantonly thrown away But these things were done before he became president. The endorsement which he has received from republicans in every state and his conceded strength as a candidate for renomination are sufficient proof that his conduct as president has very fully atoned for any prior faults We believe in the forgiveness of sins as a matter of principle and still more as a question of policy do we believe that it is a mistake to hold the past record of a man continually before the people in a vindictive and remorseless spirit. The American people are distinguished for their love of fair play They never endorse relentless attacks upon public men which fail to strike them as fair and honestly deserved The people of this country have never responded to the flippant and fiendish sneer that "Guiteau made Arthur president" It was not a happy phrase which Senator Edmunds used in his argument against the election of Bayard to succeed Harlin as president of the senate when he reproached the democrats for attempting "to draw a prize in the lottery of assassination" Gen Arthur did not wish to draw a prize in that lottery He did not want the nomination as vice president in the first place and he should not be maligned because he happened to be in the line of succession to the presidency He assumed his unexpected and undesired duties with a commendable humility and at the same time a manly dignity He had the right to be president however unwilling any faction of the party may have been that he should hold that office and he has discharged its responsible duties with as little spirit of partisanship as any president except Abraham Lincoln since the early days of the republic Mr MacVeagh has injured the cause of the independents in the degree to which his vicious attack upon the president is endorsed by them

The Christian Union publishes a columnar diagram showing the relative annual expenditure of the United States for intoxicating liquors with various other of the large items of expenditure based on the census of 1880 and other reliable authorities Next to the lowest column and only three fourths of an inch in hight is the column representing $85 000 000 expended for public education The column representing sugar and molasses comes next $155,000 000 Then comes boots and shoes cotton goods sawed lumber and woolen goods from $196 000 000 to $237 000 000, each represented by stubbed columns less than two inches in hight Then iron and steel $290 000 000 and meat $300,000 000 about two inches high The bread column goes up to nearly four inches representing the sum of $505 000 000 and the liquor column towers up to nearly double that hight say seven inches representing $900 000 000, which the Christian Union regards as a low estimate but gives the estimate of the New York Tribune at $100 000 000 less It is thus attempted to be depicted to the eye at what an enormous comparative as well as absolute cost the drinking habits of the people are supplied

Governor Stoneman of California convened the legislature of that state in special session to bring the great monopoly of Stanford Huntington and Crocker to punishment The effort was a failure After sitting fifty one days at a cost of $45 000 the legislature adjourned having done nothing whatever The governor is censured on all sides for having called the session and committed his party to an abortive effort whose failure has actually strengthened the monopoly Of course the friends of the railroad join vehemently in the denunciation One of the organs deals with the governor in this vigorous and original style

> A republican in war a democrat in peace a communist by profession a monopolist in practice his record reels and staggers in drunken zigzags, damned by betrayals of confidence at each angle A record so replete with falsehood, so ingeniously intricate with inverse and reverse hypocrisy, so seamed and scarred with duplicity, so compounded with introactive treachery can find no more fitting symbol to convey the coarse distortion of its vulgar features than the deformity of the wrong side stamped in the mask of divinity

The land-grabbers' side of the public land question is put by the St Louis Globe Democrat in the following way "If Mexico were to forbid Americans to invest in mines cattle ranches and farms the people of this country would consider their neighbors' course short-sighted, to say the least If Mexico had built up her national greatness and wealth by encouraging a system of small farms owned by their actual cultivators she would be very foolish if she did not stick to the policy, no matter what the United States or any other nation might think of it If what remained of her public lands was being rapidly gobbled up in estates of tens and hundreds of thousands of acres by absentee owners, her wisest course would be to stop it at once That is what the United States ought to do Landlordism of the Irish character is not wanted in this country

The notorious McDonald of "Sylph" and St Louis whisky ring fame has filed a protest with General Rosecrans of the house committee on military affairs against the passage of the bill to place General Grant on the retired list of the army He charges General Grant with the responsibility of the recent failures in New York and claims that he allowed his name to be used in a business so palpably fraudulent that any other firm in the country offering to pay investors 40 and 50 per cent a year would have been denounced as swindlers from the outset and the principals lodged in state prison But McDonald, being a convicted whisky-ring thief is not recognized as an authority on honesty

In these mercenary days when most men if they were eminent enough would charge the world at least a thousand dollars for writing either one of the four gospels it is refreshing to learn that Mr George William Curtis has written Mayor Martin of Boston declining to accept the generous sum appropriated a compensation for delivering the eulogy on Wendell Phillips, and saying that in selecting him for the duty the city of Boston conferred on him the greatest honor of his life No person derived so much benefit from that address as Mr Curtis and we are glad that he had public civility" enough to call it even as between himself and the city of Boston

THE INSPIRED GROVELER

The recent death of "Chevalier Henry Wikoff removes from the scene one of those human parasites who acquire a sort of second hand reputation by close association with notable or notorious people He wrote several books of reminiscences, and made some attempts in journalism none of which were successful But in making the acquaintance of distinguished people both in this country and in Europe he was as fortunate as he was persevering He was particularly fond of the society of eminent artists and theatrical people and was the means of bringing Fannie Elssler to this country Of late years he has resided chiefly in London which is indeed the favorite environment of men of his class Of such an one Dr Johnson said, in reply to an inquiry "Sir, he lived in London and hung loose upon society The description was at once epigrammatic graphic and ample As we read it we see the man himself We seem to have known him in his lifetime He comes before us as a representative character—the type of a class. The portrait dashed off with two masterly strokes of the brush is broad and general but lifelike and abundantly suggestive He was evidently not a bad man—the man in question He may have been a fairly good one But that he was not a useful man is evident from his "hanging loose upon a society in which he could have played no important part His life bore no fruit worth mentioning What manner of man was he How did he live What did he do? If these are matters of interest and one must have facts let him ask the man who lives in Boston or New York and hangs loose upon society there how he lives and what he does and then note what manner of man he is No one we are sure, who has spent much time in a large city either at home or abroad has failed to make the acquaintance of men of this class or to observe the great number of those who apparently have no other mission in life than to live in the city of their choice and hang loose upon society

This character has always existed—leaving in the past no personal traces except in somebody's published correspondence or in books of literary and social reminiscence where they are very apt to abound though rarely associated with anything better on the one hand than some light table talk some graceful compliment or lively bon mot or anything worse on the other than the gossip and tipple of the tavern or the more exclusive wassail of the club house For often such a man's chances for an incidental immortality secured by bearing the train of some great personage, or playing a minor part in some memorable scene—have been lost through his being merely spoken of as a certain Mr —— and made to figure as one whose personality was not worth recognizing though his function could hardly be dispensed with

The cities of the old world are full of such characters especially London Its social atmosphere breeds them its traditions nurse them its aristocracy patronize them, its ancient and stable monuments foster their local attachments and its pensions support them If one can boast a stain of gentle blood or kinship, however remote to some noble house—a constitutional infirmity which is apt to spoil its victim—that in itself gives him a prescriptive right to recognition Characters of this type have their well defined place and function in English light literature—especially in novels of society—where they play a part to some extent corresponding to that of walking gentleman or supernumerary on the stage

In our American cities the pattern is somewhat modified by what is peculiar in our American ideas and modes of life, but in the highest circles at least it is still essentially the same The American cousin is often a man of talent—more frequently of culture—is sometimes a man of harmless eccentricities whether natural or affected is usually well bred and sedulously cultivates a large acquaintance knows and is known by most everybody worth knowing to a greater or less extent He lives to dine out and is found at parties and receptions on which occasions his role usually is to help show off greater people than himself or pay court to vainer ones He is sometimes a critic or dabbles a little in light literature and so is frequently a lead head at lectures art exhibitions theaters etc etc He is most always poor, and a bachelor He dies and is not missed Another very like him takes his place

The type of course varies very much according to social status and personal association It frequently falls into Bohemianism in its worst form into bad breeding, dissipation and decay from which only a glimpse of great but wasted abilities can now and then for a moment lift the inspired groveller into the fellowship of decent people

The senate committee on foreign relations reports that none of the tariffs of European or American countries specifically discriminate against merchandise from the United States but France and Austro Hungary have tariff systems which operate against us and Great Britain has discriminated against American cattle for alleged sanitary reasons Respecting the prohibition against the importation of salted meats into Germany and France the committee say the discrimination is not a tariff law but absolute prohibition of a specific American product and the prohibition is declared to be based upon sanitary regulations and enforced for sanitary reasons

Conkling appears to be edging around gradually to the active support of Blaine Politics make strange bedfellows perhaps we shall have Conkling for Blaine's secretary of state

NOTE AND COMMENT

When Mr Blaine continues his history to include the five years subsequent to Garfield his chapter on the campaign of 1884 will be the most interesting in the book

A Portland Maine jury had to be provided with a dozen copies of "David Copperfield" recently in order to estimate in a libel suit the amount of damages the plaintiff had sustained in being compared to Uriah Heep

Ninety four delegates to Chicago in 1880 will be returned in 1884 Of the 30 who voted for Blaine then 19 are loyal now while he gains 5 others A large preponderance of the Grant strength 53 goes to Arthur though Blaine receives 5 former Grant men Logan 2 and Edmunds 1.

Although the manufacture of domestic pig iron in this country during 1883 was 14 972 tons or only 31 160 tons less than in 1882 the greatest year in our manufacture of iron and steel the country paid $41 608 306 for foreign iron and exported $19 025 718 worth of iron and steel manufactures

The United States now produces one fifth of the iron and one fourth of the petrol of the world and also furnishes one half of the gold and silver of the world's supply Taking all the mining industries of the world the United States represents 36 Great Britain 23 and all other nations 41 per cent of the total

The Spanish cortes have paid £30 000 for the library of the late duke of Osuna which contains 32 367 volumes of printed books 2,000 volumes of manuscript many of which are unique and nearly 2000 volumes of prints The most valuable books will go to the royal library while duplicates will be distributed among provincial collections

Lord Lytton tells an amusing story of an answer of Fuseli to a materialist who said to him in discussion "You assert then that I have an immortal soul" "Sir" replied Fuseli "I have asserted nothing of the kind What I asserted is that I have an immortal soul" In the same way Bulwer's conviction [illegible] inseparable from the sense of his own vigorous personality

It is a curious statistical fact that 17 marriages were advertised in the London Times in the seven days preceding Apr 12 and that out of this number eighty brides were fatherless This Truth presumes means that bridegrooms are looking more and more to the main chance and mainly marry girls who have cash in hand Prospects nowadays are not considered good enough Mothers in law have long been at a discount but it would seem that young men have now come to the conclusion that ready cash is a better asset than a father in law

The Finger-Bowl in Nevada

Virginia (Nev) Enterprise

The finger bowl is tabooed according to a society journal Many years ago a distinguished French gourmet declared that the use of this appliance indicated ignorance of the art of eating since an accomplished master of the knife and fork would never soil his fingers at the table This has always been the Comstock notion Meadow Lake was the only mining town on the Pacific coast that stuck up for the finger bowl The town is now dead It may be that the finger bowl did it. It is said that in early days a few finger bowls were in use in Johntown Well, it may be so—the town has been dead for many years

ASSIGNMENT OF THE CHINESE FIRMS.—The firm of Sun Lee, dealing in dry goods at No. 120 Second street, who were closed the other day by the sheriff upon a half dozen attachments, yesterday made an assignment—alias same Meilean man—ostensibly for the benefit of their creditors. The papers filed in the office of the county clerk develop a most wonderful state of affairs. In the inventory of assets the bankrupt firm have simply the stock in store, which they value at $3000. Then come about four pages of names of creditors, mostly Chinamen, the total of the sums set opposite them being over $34,000. Of this $7600 is secured by mortgages to Ladd & Tilton, Mrs. P. Long and Yaen Wa upon the twelve years' leasehold interest of Sun Lee in the property which he occupied at the time of his failure. This leaves about $27,000 of debts to be paid out $1000 of assets. Among the firms who are unsecured and who cannot get more than two or three cents on the dollar were the San Francisco woolen mills, $1549; Fleischner, Meyer & Co., $900, and the Brownsville woolen mills, $400. Wm. A. Day is named in the assignment papers as the assignee, but he states that as yet he has received no notification of such appointment, but supposes it is the joking work of some young lawyer. Ting Lung & Co., another bankrupt firm, have also made an assignment. The value of their assets are not stated, but consists only of their stock on hand, while their liabilities amount to $18,181 36. Some of their American creditors are: E Bass & Co., $2466; Stein, Simon & Co., $853; I. B Dawson, $160 41; Murphy, Grant & Co., $410 75; Mellis Bros. & Co., $174 83; Brownsville woolen mills, $693 37.

BELLIGERENTS AT MILWAUKIE.—On Tuesday afternoon the town of Milwaukie was the scene of a fight that came near being the last battle of one man, the attacking party. John Koenigsburger filled himself up with too much "bug juice" and sauntered down the road to where a young man named Nathan Harvey was at work on the farm of Seth Luelling. When Koenigsburger was within about a hundred yards of Harvey the latter shot a bird from a cherry tree, which the former resented, as he supposed Harvey had shot a dog, and coming up to where Harvey was standing, commenced abusing him roundly. Among other things he offered Harvey $20 to strike him, but the offer was not taken. This disappointment caused Koenigsburger to rave and at last strike at Harvey, who caught him on a foul and also in the right eye. When Koenigsburger got through he was badly cut up, his eyebrow and lip being laid open and his nose mashed flat. Harvey went to Justice Phillips, of Harmony precinct, Clackamas county, and swore out a warrant, which a constable served yesterday, but his prisoner was too badly used up to go along with him, and had to give bail for his appearance next Wednesday, the 28th. Public sentiment is generally in favor of Harvey, who acted on the defensive, and is at all times a peaceable citizen.

SUGGESTION ABOUT PARKS.—It is about time that our city fathers were taking under consideration the subject of the city parks and plazas. If these blocks were intended to be used as base ball grounds for boys, roosts for Chinese and places where the exhilarating exercise of beating carpets can be carried on without molestation, let the fact be known, and all opposed to the idea forever after hold their peace. But if they were intended as an ornament to the city then let some provision be made for carrying out the intention. At present there seems to be no thought or care given to the matter. The trees and shrubs planted at considerable cost, are being destroyed, and the grass trampled under foot and wallowed down. The plaza is a resort for Chinese during the day, and the band stands are used as a free lodging house by tramps and vagrants at night. It is for the mayor and council to say whether this state of affairs shall continue, or whether the energetic Elwanger, with his gang, shall be set to work to cut the grass and clean up the plaza and parks and have notices posted warning all creation to keep off the grass.

SUITABLY RECOGNIZED.—The British government has tendered a medal to Capt. Albert T. Stream, keeper of the life saving station at Shoalwater bay for having organized a volunteer crew and saved the officers and crew of the stranded bark Lammerlaw, near the mouth of Shoalwater bay, October 30, 1881. The medal is now in the hands of the secretary of state, who has recommended that congress shall take the necessary action to enable Captain Stream to accept the reward which he so manfully won. A committee of the senate reported favorably on the above and recommended the passage of a bill allowing him to accept the medal.

TEMPORARILY USELESS ASSETS.—The stocks and other property of the Holladay brothers were turned over yesterday by E. S. Kearney to D. P. Thompson, the newly appointed receiver. Among "the other property" was a lot of the finest liquors the stills of old Kentucky ever produced, which owing to the force of circumstances are doomed to rest in the cellar of the receiver instead of titilating the esophagus of one or the other of the thirsty brethren. If they desire that the old peach brandy and blue-grass whisky should be put where it will do the most good, let it be distributed among the various newspaper offices in the city.

DISCONSOLATE OVER HIS LOSS.—The most forlorn and disconsolate man in town yesterday was a bright, young Englishman, who arrived recently and lost a cane. It was a unique ornament, and the only one of the kind in these parts. The head was of silver, representing the man in the moon, and in one of the ears was concealed a spring, which upon opening disclosed a match box. He had advertised it in THE OREGONIAN, but no response, and yesterday he applied to the chief of police, the United States marshal, the county sheriff, Constable Noonan, and lastly to the coroner, and still he isn't happy.

BRIEF MENTION.

Circus this afternoon and evening.

Mr. Sam Thall, advance agent for Rice's Surprise party, arrived here yesterday.

The little son of Mr. Hy Dobbins, reported dangerously ill, is quite improved.

Mr. George Taylor, Jr. has removed to one of Ben Norden's new cottages on Seventeenth and O.

Suit was commenced by Labbe Bros. yesterday in the state circuit court against Ben Holladay and wife to recover the sum of $840 86.

The sale of the furniture and carpets of the Gillman house was stopped, as the prices offered were too small to justify a continuance.

A Chinaman who took passage on the boat from Astoria to this city yesterday, died when the boat was a few miles this side of Kalama.

There will be public speaking at Bellwood to-night, under the auspices of the republican club. Prominent speakers from this city will be present.

The German Evangelical Reformed church, Ninth and Stark streets, Rev. J. Gantenbein, pastor, will have Ascension services this morning at 10:30.

A brief dispatch from San Francisco announces that E. O. Wheeler of this city was elected vice councillor of the grand lodge of Chosen Friends.

Two locomotives for the Canadian Pacific are en route west over the Northern. At Tacoma they will be put on board the tug Tacoma and conveyed under special charter to Port Moody.

Numerous inquiries were made of OREGONIAN reporters as to where the circus would hold forth to-night. After considerable trouble it was ascertained that it will show in the old place, on the rink lot.

A Chinaman, known and hailed as John, was brought down from Pendleton yesterday, having been held to answer there on a charge of selling liquor to an Indian. That this effete Asiatic with a plebeian cognomen should thus attempt to add to the moral degradation of the noble American aborigine is too bad.

The friends of temperance and the public generally will remember the pleasant and intelligent face of Mrs. Mary Clement Leavitt of Boston, Massachusetts, to whom a reception was recently tendered at the Taylor street M. E. Church. We are happy to announce that this lady, who came so highly recommended by Miss Frances E. Willard and others of eminence, will lecture at the hall of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union, on Washington street, between Front and First, Friday and Saturday evenings of this week. She is said to present the subject of woman's suffrage from an entirely new standpoint, awakening a deep interest on the part of opponents as well as its advocates. We bespeak for her an enthusiastic house.

AMUSEMENTS.

HARRIS' NICKEL PLATE SHOWS.—This morning Harris' nickel plate circus, menagerie and museum will arrive by special train on the west side road. Tents will be pitched on the old rink block, corner Fourth and Pine, and the season will open with a performance at 2 o'clock this afternoon. Last year this organization gave a very satisfactory performance here, and well deserved the large audiences which it drew. For this season there has been added the only umbrella-eared elephant in the country, a den of trained lions, and an array of other animals, including a band of Shetland ponies. The performance in the ring embraces the best arenic talent to be had in the country. The proprietor, Mr. W. H. Harris, is one of the squarest and most popular circus men in the country.

OUR STRATEGISTS.—To-night "Our Strategists" return from the Sound and hold the boards at the New Market for the remainder of the week, including matinee Saturday. The trip over the "Mediterranean of America" has no doubt added to the vigor and vitality of Miss Gilbert, Miss Bates, Mr. Bell, Mr. Allen, Mr. Bray and the others, and they ought to be in fine trim for a splendid performance.

ZAMLOCH.—Next week Zamloch, the Austrian conjurer, will hold forth at the New Market with his feats of legerdemain and gift show. Some of the valuable presents are now on exhibition in Cornelius' window.

PERSONAL.

Colonel L. S. Howlett arrived yesterday from St. Paul.

Mr. F. W. Lewis, the well known contractor, returned yesterday overland from California.

Mr. Walter Wyne, traveling passenger agent of the Michigan Central, and Mr. H. Brown, ticket agent of the various lines at St. Paul, Minn., are in the city.

Why Dr. Price's Cream Baking Powder is superior to all others is because the testimony in its favor is the strongest, most intelligent and most competent. The million housekeepers who use it are a community, a nation expressing a preference. They know that in the kitchen in actual use they find it superior to all others.

REAL ESTATE SALE.—Gillman & Co. sell this morning at salesroom choicely located real estate.

Don't Invest in Quartz Milling Machinery Until you have investigated Salmon's Pulverizer, and the Little Giant Crusher. Since these machines have been improved and perfected, quartz of all kinds can be reduced to an impalpable powder at a cost for machinery not to exceed one tenth of what it will cost to do the same amount of work by any other known process. These machines are beyond the experimental stage and are a grand success, destined to revolutionize the milling business and to place the working of quartz within the means of small capital. Descriptive circulars with cuts and testimonials will soon be ready. Correspondence and close investigation invited. Address, UNION IRON WORKS, Portland, Oregon, Sole Manufacturers.

The advantages of pawning your valuables with Uncle Myers are these: He pays the cost of removing when you pawn your piano; he keeps your goods one year, if desired and does not re-pawn them with other pawnbrokers; he does not expose your goods in his window, but puts them in his steel vault; you can be waited on at home. Send a postal card and his confidential secretary will call on you. You can do business with him through the telephone. 151 First street, corner of Yamhill.

House furnishings can be had cheapest at Birmingham's, 244 and 246 First street. Ash, maple and walnut; suits, parlor, dining room, library and kitchen furniture, paper hangings, etc., at lower prices than ever before offered in Portland.

THE CITY COUNCIL.

Policeman Buck Charged with Taking a Bribe and Suspended.

GERDES STARTS A CAMPAIGN ON OIL.

The City to Sprinkle its own Streets—An Alleged Infringement of Patent by the Fire Department—Routine Business.

A regular meeting of the common council was held last evening, Mayor Chapman in the chair, and all the members present. The minutes of the last meeting were read and approved.

PETITIONS, REMONSTRANCES ETC.

From G. W. Yocum, asking that he be permitted to act as attorney before the council for O. D. Buck, police officer who had been informed that he was charged with malfeasance in office by taking a bribe; petition granted.

From H. Wolf & Bro. and F. Lewiston, asking rebate of taxes; referred to the committee on ways and means.

From E. R. Deblow, asking that the chief of police be restrained from collecting certain taxes referred to the committee on ways and means.

From Robert Bragg, stating that the city is infringing his patent for unhitching horses in the fire department and asking that he be remunerated therefor; referred to the committee on fire and water, the fire commissioners, city attorney and chief engineer. Sears thought it might be well to add the sheriff to this committee, which suggestion was received with general laughter.

REPORTS.

From the committee on fire and water recommending the establishment of new fire limits; laid upon the table.

From the committee on ways and means recommending that the petition of Moffet and Andrus be granted; report adopted.

From the committee on streets and public property recommending the adoption of the ordinance authorizing the appointment of a competent person as park keeper. The committee had amended the ordinance by making it read "a competent person," instead of "Hans Larsen," as originally draughted. The report was adopted.

The committee on streets and public property reported favorably upon the petition of H. B. Nicholas, establishing the grade of Water street; adopted.

The same committee reported back the ordinance for constructing a sewer on Clay street, recommending the passage of the ordinance as amended, "starting "from the Willamette river to Eleventh street," being a twelve inch sewer part of the way; indefinitely postponed.

The same committee recommended the adoption of the reports of the city surveyor in regard to the extension of Jefferson and Chapman streets; adopted.

From the committee on health and police, recommending the payment of $23 50 to Patrick Lawlor; adopted.

From the same committee, recommending that the petition of W. A. Beaumont be granted, as follows: Your petitioner would respectfully show that O. D. Buck is employed by this city as a member of its police force and as such member receives a good and sufficient salary; that said Buck is indebted to your petitioner in the sum of $40, which sum is now and has been due and owing since last March wherefore, your petitioner prays that said Buck be required to pay said debt from said salary. After some discussion as to the legality of paying officer Buck's debts, the report was received with the understanding that Buck should pay or lose his place.

The case of Thomas Fal on, a saloon keeper, who asked that the sum of $83 13 be refunded to him for a liquor license unused during the months of May and June, he having gone out of the business, was reported back from the same committee, recommending that the relief prayed for be granted; adopted.

From the same committee, recommending the refunding of $81 50, advance license paid by D. P. Sheehan; adopted.

From the city surveyor, stating that he has surveyed the proposed extension of South First street so as to cut off a portion of block 106 in Caruthers' addition; adopted.

From Chief of Police Parrish, stating that he had suspended policeman O. D. Buck upon charges preferred by C. Pater, a groceryman, who asserted that Buck had taken a bribe of $5. The case was referred to the committee on health and police, and Buck's suspension was ordered to continue pending the investigation.

NEW ORDINANCES.

Providing for the improvement of College street from Second street to Third street; read twice.

Establishing the grade of Water street; read first time.

Declaring probable cost of improving Front street by laying stone crosswalks from F street to Madison street; read twice.

Declaring probable cost of improving Second street and making appropriation therefor; passed.

Authorizing the employment of D. E. Buchanan as superintendent of construction of the dredger, under, with to all compensation fixed at $250; read twice.

Prohibiting the storing of coal oil or oil of any kind anywhere within the city in greater bulk than one barrel or forty five gallons. This ordinance was introduced by Councilman Gerdes, who addressed the council in its favor. He said some one had erected large tanks capable of holding several hundred gallons of oil down in Slabtown, and the citizens of that locality were much afraid those tanks would burst and set the river afire and burn them all up.

Councilman Andrus spoke a few words in regard to the foolishness of the proposed ordinance, which was then referred to the committee on fire and water.

ENGROSSED ORDINANCES

Fixing the office hours of the auditor and clerk, superintendent of streets and city surveyor from 8 A. M. to 5 P. M.; laid over.

Providing for the time and manner of improving Jefferson street; passed.

Establishing the grade of Clay street; passed.

Authorizing the employment of a park keeper; passed.

Making an appropriation of $20,000 for the cleaning and sprinkling of the streets.

Councilman Honeyman moved to strike out the words "and sprinkling," which was lost. The ordinance then passed.

Providing for the time and manner of improving A street; passed.

Providing for the time and manner of improving North Twenty-first street; passed.

Providing for the driving of three rows of additional piles for the wharf on the city levee; passed.

Adopting the report of the city surveyor in the matter of the proposed extension of Jefferson street; passed.

Adopting the report of the city surveyor in the matter of the proposed extension of Chapman street; passed.

RESOLUTIONS.

Instructing the auditor and clerk to notify the contractor to finish the work on the North Fourteenth street bridge within a week or be declared delinquent.

That notice be given of proposed improvement of Hall street; adopted.

Also of the proposed improvement of Tenth street; referred back to the committee on streets and public property.

Appointing F. Opitz, S. Farrell and B. O'Hara viewers in the matter of the proposed extension of T street; adopted.

Authorizing the erection of a street lamp at the corner of Mill and Lownsdale streets; adopted.

THE EAST SIDE.

MEETING OF CELEBRATION COMMITTEE.

The executive committee in charge of the arrangements for the coming Fourth of July celebration met last evening for deliberation. After some discussion, it was decided to appoint sub-committees, each to have charge of a different feature of the celebration, but their actions to be subject to the approval of the whole committee. This appears to be a good arrangement, as, while it will tend to expedite matters will avoid confusion and promote harmony. Under this action, various sub-committees were appointed by the chair. Among the committees appointed was one on fireworks, who will canvass the prospect of a display in East Portland on the Fourth and report at next meeting. The committee appointed to receive subscriptions are receiving substantial encouragement from business men and others, and the prospects are flattering for a celebration worthy the occasion.

CITIZENS' UNION CLUB.

A business meeting of this club occurred at Neppach's hall last evening, In the absence of the president, T. J. Matlock, Vice President A. L. Kirk presided. Remarks were made by H. K. Hunsaker, W. T. Burney, Cornelius Taylor, A. L Kirk, Dr. E A. Jones, A. J. Nowell, Thomas Turnbull, Prof. F. A. E. Starr and others, advising and suggesting plans for the prosecution of a vigorous campaign, the result being that the executive committee were instructed to make the following arrangements: To engage the East Portland band to escort the club this (Thursday) evening to Albina, where a public demonstration will occur; to arrange with the club in Grant precinct for an early visit of the Union club; to arrange for a mass meeting at Neppach's hall next Monday night, and also on the Saturday night following the time appointed for John Myers to address the citizens of East Portland.

In accordance with the above, the East Portland band will be stationed at the corner of Fourth and I streets this evening to muster the crowd for Albina, and the procession will move promptly at 8 o'clock.

NOTES.

Mr. S. M. Keenan has returned from a week's sojourn in Washington county.

The postponed literary and musical entertainment, to be given under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid society of the Congregational church, occurs at the church to-morrow evening. In addition to the amateur orchestral club Miss Lizzie Anderson of Portland is expected to take part.

Washington council No. 3, Royal Select Masters, recently organized, have received their charter, and installation of officers will occur at an early day.

Dr. G. E. Nottage, who left here with the Child excursion, has arrived at Chicago.

Mr. W. H. Moore returned yesterday from a business trip to Olympia.

INDEPENDENT COLORED MEN SPEAK.

The following preamble and resolutions were adopted by the Portland Colored Independent Political Club, which foreshadows their line of action in the coming campaign:

WHEREAS, The principles of republicanism are the principles on which the seers of the revolution sought to build our present national structure, and although perverted by the enemies of republican liberty for over two and a half centuries have at last secured, through the labors of the republican party of to-day, a practical realization of the great and philanthropical ends assigned by the founders of this grand feat of national structures, to the extent that all the inhabitants thereof are made equal before the law and clothed with the proud habiliments of American citizenship, "without regard to race, color or previous condition of servitude;" and

WHEREAS, Holding, as we do, that city and county officers and the judiciary should be selected without regard to partisan affiliation, because of the fact that all classes being brought in direct contact with them in the discharge of their official duties, a greater freedom from party prejudices or predilections may reasonably be hoped for; and,

WHEREAS, It has been charged that certain colored men, in defiance of common decency and self-respect and the duty they owe alike themselves and the unfortunate race to which they belong, have at previous elections been guilty of gathering as many colored men together as they could by whatever means control, and sell them, "like sheep in shambles," and with them their own "birthright for a mess of pottage;" therefore,

Resolved, That we, the members of the Portland colored independent political club, will cast our united vote at the general election in June next for the congressional and legislative nominees of the republican party.

Resolved, That in selecting our candidates for the judiciary and city and county offices we will seek good men, without regard to the party nominating them.

Resolved, That we earnestly appeal to such colored men to spare their unfortunate race the certain disgrace which such practices will certainly entail upon them and themselves in common, and seek by a manly and judicious exercise of the privileges of American citizens to secure the respect of all good persons.

THE NAMING OF ASHLAND.

ASHLAND, Or., May 19.

To the Editor of The Oregonian:

In a recent number of your paper I see where a reporter interviewed Judge Deady in regard to the naming of the town of Ashland. There must be some mistake, either of your reporter or of the judge for it is a well known fact to all of the old settlers here that the way Ashland derived its name was from the fact that Abel D. Helman, who still owns and resides on the greater part of the donation claim on which Ashland is situated, in company with his brother, John Helman, Eber Emery and Jacob Emery, were the first to locate on Ashland creek, which was then known as Rock creek. But they all being from Ashland, Ashland county, Ohio, gave the name of Ashland to their pleasant home on the creek, and then, in company with the Hon. James Cardwell, now of Jacksonville, erected the flouring mills on the creek and gave the name of Ashland mills to the same in honor of old Ashland, Ohio. The postoffice, with A. D. Helman, postmaster, was called Ashland Mills postoffice for a number of years. Recently the "mills" was dropped, and Ashland postoffice retained, but, alas for the ways of politics! the veteran postmaster is not retained, after serving the public for over a quarter of a century.

SUPREME COURT.

SALEM, May 21.

A. R. Burbank, resp., vs. Charles H. Dodd, app. Judgment of circuit court, reversed, with direct one to dismiss the action. Per curiam.

SYLLABUS.

No action can be maintained by the plaintiff in an execution to recover from a bidder at a sheriff's sale the amount bid by him, but not paid over by such officer. The sheriff only can maintain such an action.

Mary Taylor, resp., vs. George W. Taylor, app. Decree of circuit court reversed and the bill dismissed. Opinion by Lord, J.

SYLLABUS.

1. The cruel treatment which may be foundation of a divorce must be unmerited and unprovoked, or wholly disproportionate to the provocation.
2. The policy of the law is to sustain the marriage relation, and courts of equity will not lend their aid to dissolve it unless the proof be clear and satisfactory of the truth of the charge preferred.

John O'Leary vs. Alexander Fa[illegible]her and John Storrs. Argued and submitted.

Court adjourned until 11 A. M. to-morrow.

ITEMS FROM THE DALLES.

THE DALLES, May 21.

Sunday and Monday were excessively warm days, the thermometer ranging from 85 to 95 deg. in the shade.

A fine band of horses belonging to George Waldron were sold at auction at Hood's stable Friday and Saturday of last week. Prices generally ranged low.

An attempt has been made to put an independent county ticket in the field. The people seem well enough pleased with the regular nominees, and the "kickers" meet with no encouragement from any source.

Mr. G. W. Jackson of Portland, assisted by his son, O. W. Jackson, the Metzell club and other local talent, gave a ballad concert in the K. of P. hall Friday evening. Prof. Jackson thinks of forming a class in singing during the coming summer or autumn.

GRANGERS' PICNIC.

The members of Farmington Grange No. 119 gave their second annual picnic Tuesday, in the grove near Harris' bridge. A large number of people were present. The exercises were opened by singing, after which Judge R. P. Boise, grand master of the state grange of Oregon, was introduced and delivered a very able address on the "Nature and Character of the Work of the State Grange." Organization is the great power of the day. The farmer, to assert his rights, must organize, be independent, intelligent. He must do his own thinking. Others have already done it too long for his benefit. To bring the needed changes about every farmer should belong to the grange, and all work together. Following the address was an intermission of two hours. During this time lunch was eaten and a good social time enjoyed by all, and a game of baseball indulged in by the young men.

Upon reassembling Hon. W. D. Hare made one of his popular speeches, full of pointed remarks and happy suggestions. He was followed by Mr. Everts. The exercises were then ended, and all went home voting the picnic a success.

THURSDAY MORNING, MAY 22, 1884.

NEWS OF THE NORTHWEST.

Eastern Oregon.

Mountain Sentinel: Newton W. Downe, an indigent charge of the county, arose early Thursday morning from his bed in the poor house, which is situated immediately on the bank of the creek, and without taking his clothes or any garments with him, made his exit out of the back door, which opens within a few feet of the water. He has not since been seen or heard of, and the supposition is that he jumped into Catherine creek with suicidal intent. Mr. Downe was born in New Haven, Connecticut, in 18[illegible], and during the rebellion served two enlistments in company E, forty-third battalion of New York volunteers, his discharges from the service being the only effects in his possession. He leaves a wife and three children who reside in the Wallowa.

The assessed valuation of taxable property of Skagit county for the current year is $833,000.

The Masons of Spokane Falls are already making arrangements for the grand lodge that will be held there early in June.

Kittitas Localizer: It has been rumored for some time that Dick Thompson has been killed up near Lake Chelan by the Indians.

Monday a young whale was caught in the lower bay at Olympia by some fishermen. The specimen measured about ten feet in length.

Walla Walla exchange: Judging from the smokey atmosphere heavy fires must be raging somewhere in the mountains. Quite an unusual thing to have forest fires at this time of the year.

Six Indians were fined $10 each for trapping fish in the Little Spokane. The arrests were made under the instigation of the Rod and Gun Club of Spokane Falls. The Indians can hardly understand why it is thus.

The Waitsburg Times says: We learn of a few cases of glanders among horses north of Prescott. We understand that a few have died, and that George Rice was forced to kill a span for which he a few days ago refused $400.

The land department of the Northern Pacific recently sold 7000 acres of grazing land in one body, between Glendive and Miles City, Montana, to A. J. Thompson of Olean, New York, who will convert it into a sheep ranch. The purchase price was about $1 per acre.

N. M. Tappan committed suicide at the Northern Pacific hotel at Spokane Falls on Saturday. He took a large dose of laudanum and strychnine. He lingered several hours in great pain and died. Tappan was the first sheriff of Spokane county, and has many acquaintances in the northwest. No cause is assigned for the deed.

Walla Walla Union: Monday forenoon, while a [illegible]-year-old son of Mr. Bieber was playing on the banks of the North Pacific mill race, he fell into the water and was carried some distance down stream. The little fellow's companions gave the alarm, when the boy's father went to the rescue, and succeeded in saving the lad just in the nick of time.

At a miners' meeting held last week on the Swauk, it was decided that the heathen Chinese must go. A committee accordingly waited upon those at work there, and told them that no more Chinamen could work on their own account in the Swauk district. This step is said to have been taken because of the Chinamen reinforcing their number with the view of resisting the attempt to drive them out.

Monday U. S. Special Agent Beebe held another pow-wow with the Palouse [illegible]. There were about twenty-five siwashes present. The Indians did not seem very anxious to take land in severalty, and when the agent told them that the government had done all it intended to do for them and that they would have to take up land in severalty or else go to their reservations, the redskins, with anything but friendship in their looks, decided to abandon tribal relations and take up farms. They said that the only thing to delay them would be raising sufficient money to file on the land, the amount being about $22 for each Indian.

Mr. James Dowlie, residing at Dungeness, committed suicide at that place on Tuesday by shooting himself through the heart with a Winchester rifle. Mr. Dowlie was about 45 years of age, and for the last year has been a victim of mental aberration, brought about by family trouble, but no one, so it seems, thought his unhappy mind would lead to self-destruction. The gun was tied to the door, a string connected with the trigger, and placing his breast against the muzzle of the gun, it was discharged, killing him instantly. The body was still warm when found, and the clothing burned away by the powder from the gunshot wound. He will be buried to-day.

Idaho.

Last Sunday, Dr. R. E. Jameson arrived at Walla Walla, and brought information that Saturday morning last an old soldier who was the cook for the Twenty-first infantry band was found at Coeur d'Alene City with his head crushed in, evidently by a sand bag. The old man, whose name Dr. Corcoran could not remember, had been paid off the day before, and the supposition is that he was murdered for the few dollars in his possession.

BLAINE'S CHANCE OF ELECTION.

San Francisco Call.

The obstacle in the way of Blaine's nomination is the persistent and positive assurance on the part of certain prominent republican leaders in New York that if nominated he will be defeated. The ground for this assurance is that a faction in the party in New York will not support him if he be nominated. There is reason to believe that the threat of defeating him is not idle. New York is a very close state, and with Mr. Tilden as the democratic candidate, the strongest republican that could be nominated will have no guarantee of success. If, therefore, there should be a small faction opposing Blaine in his own party, the electoral vote of that state would be lost to the party. But if Mr. Tilden is nominated by the democrats on a platform written or dictated by himself, the republicans will stand less than an even chance of carrying New York with any candidate. They will, in that case, make the campaign with the purpose of securing the necessary number of electoral votes from other states than New York. If the republicans should concede the vote of New York to Tilden they will find Blaine their strongest man. He is the only candidate who could enter the campaign with much hope of success with New York against him. The reason for this is that Mr. Blaine has a good even chance of fourteen electoral votes from the Pacific states which can not be counted for any other republican candidate. If we divide the states into three groups—republican, democratic and doubtful—we have the following:

REPUBLICAN STATES.

Colorado	3	Minnesota	7
Illinois	22	Nebraska	5
Iowa	13	New Hampshire	4
Kansas	9	Pennsylvania	30
Maine	6	Rhode Island	4
Massachusetts	14	Vermont	4
Michigan	13	Wisconsin	11
Total			145

These states are reasonably sure for any republican candidate that is likely to be nominated.

DEMOCRATIC STATES.

Alabama	10	Mississippi	9
Arkansas	7	Missouri	16
Delaware	3	North Carolina	11
Florida	4	South Carolina	9
Georgia	12	Tennessee	12
Kentucky	13	Texas	13
Louisiana	8	West Virginia	6
Maryland	8	Virginia	12
Total			153

It will be seen that these states foot up 145 votes for the republicans, and 153 for the Democrats.

DOUBTFUL STATES.

California	8	New Jersey	9
Connecticut	6	New York	36
Indiana	15	Ohio	23
Nevada	3	Oregon	3
Total			103

The whole number of electoral votes is 402; 202 is necessary to a choice. The republican candidate must take from the doubtful column 57 votes to insure success. To get along without New York the candidate must carry Ohio and Indiana. If either of these states should go with New York to the democratic candidate, with all the states conceded to the candidate, he would be elected. If the republicans should carry all the states conceded to them, and all the doubtful states except New York and Indiana they would lack two votes of an election. This view of the field will go far to determine the result of the democratic convention. Tilden will in all probability be nominated as the man most certain of New York, and if he can add 18 votes to the certain states, and the 36 of New York, he will be elected. These 18 votes may come from the Pacific states, from Indiana, from New Jersey and California, or New Jersey, Oregon and Nevada. Connecticut, although properly placed in the doubtful column, would hardly desert the democratic ticket except under such unusual conditions that its vote would not be needed to elect. Blaine is admitted to be the only republican who can count with any assurance on an electoral vote from the Pacific states. He is the only republican whom the people would trust on the Chinese question. With these states the republican candidate could be elected without New York. Indiana, Ohio and Connecticut would be more safe for Blaine than the three would be for any other republican candidate. It is tolerably clear that if Tilden should be nominated and should carry New York, the republicans would not stand a ghost of a chance without votes from the Pacific States.

[There is an error in the above as regards Oregon. This state is republican, and will cast its vote for the republican candidate, whoever he may be. It therefore should come out of the "doubtful" list and be set down with the "certain" republican states.—Ed. Oregonian.]

They Have Spoken as they Pass By.

Washington Special.

The Critic prints the following: Mr. Morrison and Mr. Eaton do not speak any more. They have not been on good terms since the wide divergence of their tariff views was developed somewhat pugnaciously very early in the session. They managed, however, to get along fairly until two days ago. If there is one measure more than another that Mr. Eaton thinks is of great importance it is the bill regulating the presidential succession. [illegible] by all means. With [illegible] in view he went to Mr. Morrison the other day. He wanted Morrison's aid in getting consideration for the bill by the house. He told him how important it was, and how greatly the country, on the eve of a presidential election, was interested in having the bill become a law before [illegible]

TRADE AND COMMERCE.

WEDNESDAY, May 21.

Two days of weather promising rain have passed without expectations being met. To-day indications point to clearing weather. The rivers are steadily rising, marking at 8:30 this morning as follows above low water mark: Riparia, 14 ft. FREIGHTS—A charter at San Francisco to-day shows a slight shading of last rates paid, yet the market may be considered firm, as few owners will accept 35s for spot iron. In futures our shippers appear to have done almost nothing. Next February is a long way ahead, but it is stated that a hardy iron vessel is offering, or was offering, for that loading at 35s.

WHEAT—Owing to an increased continental demand for cargoes the market to-day exhibits better tone. All foreign and Atlantic markets are tending up, while those of this coast are weak and dull. Regarding the local market we can only repeat the tiresome story of inactivity. The San Francisco Call recently published an estimate, by counties, of the yield of wheat and barley the coming crop year in California. It placed the expected wheat harvest at 1,780,881 tons, and deducting the amount required for home consumption, which is 300,000 tons, the surplus very closely follows the estimate of 1,500,000 tons for export offered by grain shippers. To date for the current season California has shipped 703,892 tons.

OATS—A fairly steady market at 47@48c for good feed rules. Receipts have lessened and the situation is less crowded.

FRUITS, ETC.—The steamer brought a supply of small fruits and vegetables, which were well picked over by noon. Prices of berries and cherries are yet too fancy to admit of general use. The local crop is doing well, a few berries having come in. Cherries are forward for the season and will yield well.

BUTTER—Arrivals by steamer were only 21 boxes and more local is at hand. Low values have greatly lessened importations.

CHICKENS—Sales range from $4 50 to $5 50 as to condition.

EGGS—A steady market is continued at 22½c.

SHIPPING NOTES.

The ship Sumner R. Mead went down river this morning with a full cargo of wheat.

The Coldstream goes to Liverpool to discharge.

A large portion of the Beda's freight consisted of cannery supplies.

The Emperor Louis Napoleon smoked only the finest cigars the world could produce. Prof. Horsford says the Emperor's cigars were made specially for him in Havana from leaf tobacco grown in the Golden Belt of North Carolina, this being the finest leaf grown. Blackwell's Bull Durham Smoking Tobacco is made from the same leaf used in the Emperor's cigars, is absolutely pure and is unquestionably the best tobacco ever offered.

Thackeray's gifted daughter, Anne, in her sketch of Alfred Tennyson, in Harper's Monthly, tells of her visit to the great poet. She found him smoking Blackwell's Bull Durham Tobacco, sent him by Hon. James Russell Lowell, American Minister to the Court of St. James.

In these days of adulteration, it is a comfort to smokers to know that the Bull Durham brand is absolutely pure, and made from the best tobacco the world produces.

Blackwell's Bull Durham Smoking Tobacco is the best and purest made. All dealers have it. None genuine without the trade-mark of the Bull.

POISON
In the blood is apt to show itself in the Spring, and nature should by all means be assisted in throwing it off. Swift's Specific does this effectively. It is a purely vegetable, non-poisonous remedy, which helps nature to force all the poison or taint out through the pores of the skin.

Mr. Robert A. Easley, of Dickson, Tenn., writes, under date March 10, 1884: "I had chills and fever, followed by rheumatism, for three years, so that I was not able to attend to my business; had tried almost every kind of medicine and found no relief. A friend recommended Swift's Specific. I tried one bottle and my health began to improve. I continued until I had taken six bottles, and it has set me on my feet, as sound and well as ever. I recommend it to all similarly afflicted."

Letters from twenty three (23) of the leading retail druggists of Atlanta say, under date March 24, 1884: "We sell more of Swift's Specific than any other one remedy, and three to ten times as much as any other blood medicine. We sell it to all classes, and many of the best families use it as a general health tonic."

I am sure that Swift's Specific saved my life. I was terribly poisoned with malaria, and was given up to die. Swift's Specific relieved me promptly and entirely. I think it is the greatest remedy of the age. U. G. SPENCER, Sup't. Gas Works, Rome, Ga.

I have known and used Swift's Specific for more than twenty years, and have seen more wonderful results from its use than from any remedy in or out of the Pharmacopoeia. It is a certain and safe antidote to all sorts of Blood Poison. J. DICKSON SMITH, M. D., Atlanta, Ga.
